WING SKETCHES HOME COMING COMMITTEEMEN

NOTED ARTIST AND WRITER GIVES BRAINERD THE ONCE OVER

ST. PAUL DISPATCH CARTOONIST AND WRITER GUEST OF THE LIONS' CLUB WEDNESDAY

LOUIS RASCH, NEW YORK COMMERCIAL ARTIST, PREPARING EX-SERVICE MEN'S FLOAT

Frank Wing, noted artist on the staff of the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press, arrived in Brainerd Wednesday afternoon and sketched committee men, officers and others of the home coming celebration. His sketches and his write up of Brainerd and its celebration will appear in the St. Paul Dispatch-Pioneer Press Sunday edition of July 2 and will thus give Brainerd the widest kind of publicity through all the Northwest and middle west.

Wing is an adept with pen and pencil and his series of sketches and articles running every Sunday and taking in towns like Red Wig, Northfield, Faribault, Winona, etc., has attracted a world of attention.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Wing was a guest of the Lions club and made a happy address there. He was given an automobile ride about Brainerd, saw all its various industries, looked at the Brainerd Country club golf grounds, glimpsed "Grand View" and the many pretty lakes about Brainerd, saw the dairy and farming country, met hundreds of people, renewed acquaintances and in short quickly gained a wealth of material.

All Brainerd will buy a paper Sunday, July 2, to see how the great St. Paul paper has given publicity to Brainerd, its industries, its people and its 50th anniversary celebration and home coming.

Commercial Artist Designs Float

Louis Rasch is at home on a visit during the summer months. Mr. Rasch has a studio in New York City where he engages in the interesting vocation of commercial artist. The e-service men's committee has been fortunate in securing him to prepare the float which these men will put into the parade on the Fourth of July and the Dispatch is informed that this float will be of special design and of high artistic merit. Mr. Rasch is the son of Joseph Rasch, Sr. of Northeast Brainerd.

The Spirit of Progress

"The crowded streets, the busy stores, the jammed hotels, the rumbling of the cars, the sound of the hammer all day and a large portion of the night, and the constant ingress of emigrants, bearing unmistakable evidence of a real life, flowed onward like a stream with great force." Of what city in the making is the author writing? Mighty Chicago, perhaps? No—He is writing of our own Brainerd.

In "The Histroy of the Upper Mississippi Valley," published in Minneapolis in 1881, is a description of the early settlement of Crow Wing county, with seventeen pages devoted to Brainerd. It is mighty interesting reading, with its account of the first house, built of round logs by Charles Darby; its first marriage, that of Joseph Gronden and Miss Darby; the first court house and jail, of which it says: "The walls of the jail were scantling lying flat, and spiked together, nine hundred and fifty-eight pounds of large spikes beig used in the construction."

Brainerd in the 80's

And another paragraph gives us a glimpse of the town as it was in the early 80's: With the establishment of lumber manufacturies, substantial and even elegant dwellings supplanted the ruder cabins, and with the exception of a temporary check growing out of Jay Cooke's failure, and the suspension of railroad construction, the place has since enjoyed a steady growth, and is now the most active town on this line of road."

Yes, buildings are fine, and cities have to have them, but what of the real spirit of the town? Here you have it, in what is called "cold print," but throbbing with the grow-

2 POWERFUL FORCES STRUGGLE TO WIN SOVIET RUSSIA

BELIEVED EXTREMISTS MAKING LAST STAND TO DRIVE LENINE FROM POWER

IF THE RADICALS WIN, IT IS FEARED THAT ANOTHER WAR WILL FOLLOW

(By United Press.)

The Hague, June 22.—Two powerful forces struggled for control of Soviet Russia while the outside world represented by the delegates here await the outcome.

The representatives of the powers professed to see in the tentative request from Moscow for postponement of The Hague conference a last stand by extremists within the Soviet to drive Lenine from power.

Soviet Russia is being torn by internal strife, which reaches a crisis as the date set for the conference with European powers approaches. If Lenine wins and sends delegates to the Netherlands capital, Russia may make peace with the world and resume relations that will render the extremists powerless to bring about another war. If the radicals win, it is feared another war will follow.

Bolshevist radicals are making a fight to cause postponement of The Hague meeting until Lenine's ill health forces him from active control.

The Hague conference, it is believed, may last six months more.

VIOLENT LABOR WARFARE FEARED AT COAL MINES

TWO KILLED AT SOUTHERN ILLINOIS COAL CO. PLANT; SHUT DOWN TODAY

PIT STORMED BY CROWD OF 1,500 STRIKERS AND SYMPATHIZERS LATE THURSDAY

(By United Press.)

Marion, Ill., June 22.—Thirty-five are dead in the mine war riot in the pit between Marion and Herrin, according to word reaching the office of Colonel Hunter, of the national guard, at this hour.

Colonel Hunter's office indicated that these reports were brought by eye witnesses to the killings. Hunter was still at the scene of the battle surveying conditions.

Word went back to Marion by Hunter that he found the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal company where the strike breakers had been employed, a total wreck.

Buildings were burned, tracks torn up, and cranes dynamited.

Many bodies were hanging from trees, and others showed evidence of severe beatings before being fired upon, these reports said.

Martial law seemed imminent.

Marion, Ill., June 22.—The mine operated by strike breakers of the Southern Illinois Coal company feared violent labor warfare, in which two were killed yesterday, and which was shut down today, when hundreds of strike breakers who had been employed in the pit were conducted beyond the strike zone.

William J. Lester, president of the concern, announced he would make no further attempt to operate with strike breakers under present conditions.

The pit was stormed by a crowd of 1,500 strikers and sympathizers late Thursday when word was received by local union leaders from the United Mine Workers headquarters at Indianapolis, the union to which the strike breakers claimed to belong, was unauthorized and outlawed by the American Federation of Labor.

Lester conferred early today with union heads, and L. G. Hunter, representative of the adjutant general's office at Springfield.

Hunter came here when an appeal went in for troops to quell the rioting.

As far as could be determined by close investigation today, only two were dead, Sidney Morrison, a guard, who was killed while trying to protect a load of strike breakers, and George Hendrickson, a miner. Many were injured in fist fights and by stones.

Crowds of strike breakers composed of miners, gathered from surrounding towns of Herrin, Carbondale and West Frankfort. Hardware stores were raided by the crowds to obtain weapons and ammunition. All fears for further disturbances passed, however, with the exodus of the strike breakers.

The mine between Marion and Herrin has been a sore spot for union strikers since they walked out on April 1st.

50 Strike Breakers Seized

Marion, Ill., June 22.—Fifty strike breaking miners were conducted from the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal company near Herrin, were taken into custody today by a mob of 1,000 strike sympathizers here.

The mob surrounded the strike breakers who were being marched from the mine after operators had announced that no further attempts would be made to operate the works, following the killing of two men in a battle between strikers and guards yesterday.

On taking the strike breakers into custody, the mob began to march toward Herrin, where they planned to put the men aboard trains leaving the coal fields.

130th Infantry Under Orders

Springfield, Ill., June 22—Three companies of the 130th infantry were under orders today to be prepared to move into the mine field trouble zone at a moment's notice.

Several thousand fully armed men could reach the riot zone in eight hours.

Proposed Truce Abandoned

Cleveland, June 22.—The proposed truce of coal operators and mine union officials of the central district comprised of Ohio, Indiana,, Illinois and western Pennsylvania, in an effort to end the coal strike, has been abandoned, coal operators here told the United Press today.

ASSASSIN'S HAND STRIKES DOWN FIELD MARSHAL H. WILSON

CHIEF OF STAFF OF BRITISH ARMY SLAIN AT HIS HOME

HIS POLICY INCURRED ENMITY OF SOUTHERN IRISH EXTREMISTS

(By United Press)

London, June 22—Henry Wilson was shot here today at his home in Eaton Square by two assassins. The men were captured.

The war office believes that the Irish extremists were responsible for the assassination.

Field Marshal Henry Wilson was Great Britain's representative on the allied supreme council which dictated allied ministry policies during the latter part of the war.

He was also chief of staff of the British army. In the latter capacity he was responsible for sending troops to Ireland during recent troubles. He was a strong supporter of Ulster.

He incurred the emnity of the southern Irish extremists after the withdrawal of Sir General Neville MacReidy, who is not unpopular despite his position. Wilson, however, is bitterly hated by the republicans.

Assassins Captured

London, June 22.—Two soldiers of the Irish republican army today shot to death Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson in front of his residence at Eaton Square.

The assassins were captured after they had put up a running fight and shot three policemen and one civilian. One attempted suicide following his arrest.

The murder of Wilson, a member of parliament from Ulster, was believed to be a part of the widespread plot to assassinate opponents of the Irish republican party, and guards were redoubled in the halls and in front of the residences in Downing street.

Reprisals against Catholics in Belfast as a result of the murder of Sir Henry, who was a leader of the Ulster defense, are feared.

One policeman wounded in the running gun fight following the shooting, died in the hospital. Police searched the square in the hope of finding more men who might have been accomplices of O'Brien and Connelly.

WIDESPREAD MUTINIES REPORTED IN KIANGSI PROVINCE; THOUSANDS KILLED

HUNDREDS OF FOREIGN AND AMERICAN MISSIONARIES ARE WITHOUT PROTECTION

(By United Press.)

Shanghai, June 22.—Foreign women missionaries have been roped with Chinese, two by two, and driven into the mountains, according to reports from Kiau Fu, giving details of the most horrible massacres since the Boxer rebellion.

Soldiers whipped foreign women to hurry them on the march. More than 10,000 Chinese and many foreigners are reported to have been murdered n widespread mutinies in the Kiangsi province.

British missionaries are reported to have appealed directly to the foreign office at London, over the heads of the Peking legation, for assistance against the murdering. They were quoted as saying the slaughter is the most terrible in years.

First reports that 10,000 had been slain in the destruction of several cities of the central Kiangsi province are believed to be exceeded by fresh atrocities.

Hundreds of foreign and American missionaries are in danger. One American gun boat and three British boats are on the way. Several hundred British and American marines will be in the landing party.

COMMONS ADJOURNS IMMEDIATELY AFTER ANNOUNCEMENT

IMMEDIATELY LOBBIES OF PARLIAMENT SURGED WITH TALK OF GENERAL ELECTION

MANDATE POLICY OF GOVERNMENT REJECTED BY DECISIVE VOTE OF 60 TO 29

(By United Press.)

London, June 22.—The Lloyd George government was defeated in the grand committee of the house of commons today.

The committee adopted an amendment to the national health insurance bill which the government had opposed.

The house adjourned immediately following announcement of the defeat to permit the government to consider its position.

Immediately the lobbies of parliament surged with talk of a general election.

Defeat of the government in the house of lords yesterday when the mandate policy was rejected 60 to 29 despite the Earl of Balfour's amendment, followed so closely by today's defeat, gave opponents of the government something definite upon which to base their demands for resignation.

The government recently was defeated in the house on a minor question relating to teachers' salaries.

POLITICS WARMING UP IN NORTH DAKOTA

(By United Press)

Jamestown, N. D., June 22.—Politicians are fighting the good old fight in North Dakota, a central tour of the state last week revealed, tuned up anew with the nonpartisans and regular republicans. The independents scored a knockdown in the recall election last November, but it was far from being a knockout. The fight is on and it looks pretty much like an even break at next Wednesday's primaries.

Senator Porter J. McCumber, who has claimed all of the old standpat republicans, most of the independent votes and a considerable portion of the conservative democrats, has jabbed into them his record of fram legislation during his 23 years in congress.

Governor J. O. A. Preus, of Minnesota, came here today to make a half dozen speeches, dwelling almost exclusively on McCumber's record of farm legislation. He is telling the farmers that they have a real friend as chairman of the senate finance committee, the federal farm loan act, the national grain grading bill, the tariff bill, appropriation for farm relef, and farm loans, and his opposition to Canadian reciprocity, being held up as a bait.

ORDINARY varnish would have been ruined. But, luckily, the floor was Valsparred.

Soaked for hours with puddles of hot water, it emerged absolutely undamaged—never a dull streak, never a splotch of white. For Valspar is absolutely waterproof.

BEARE BLOCK SOLD TO MARKOWITZ BROS.

Tenants Now in Building Will Continue Occupancy, Block Bought as an Investment

CONSIDERATION NOT GIVEN OUT

Markowitz Brothers Having Money to Invest Showed Their Firm Faith in Brainerd

The business people of Brainerd were unusually interested in a real estate deal announced Thursday morning whereby Markowitz Brothers become the owners of the Beare block.

The Dispatch sought to ascertain the facts of the transaction and talked with the Markowitz Brohters at their beautiful and commodious store "The Plymouth" located on the corner of Seventh and Laurel streets. It was learned that the terms of the sale were cash and that the deal was closed in ten minutes.

Thomas Beare has contemplated for some time going to reside in California to avoid the cold winters of this section of the country and has entered into certain business plans in the western state in which he expects to reside. Therefore Mr. Beare wished to sell the beautiful block located on Seventh street and well known as the store in which is housed the business of the H. F. Michael Co.

One of the first questions of interest to business men related to the intention of the purchasers with regard to present tenants and it was thought that Markowitz Brothers might be contemplating moving into their newly acquired building.

The brothers announce that they bought the building as an investment and because they have confidence in Brainerd as a good city in which to do business. The present tenants will remain in the block. They consider the purchase an unusually good investment, the building being of exceptionally good construction and splendidly located. Right after closing the deal the Markowitz Brothers had offers to take the building off their hands.

The proprietors of the Plymouth Clothing and Furnishings House have built up a strong business in Brainerd and have learned just what the city is during their business experience here and when they had additional money to invest as a result of their compensation coming from the government as a result of the Cloquet fire, they thought that Brainerd offered them a good field for investment and the Beare Block attracted them.

"Milesians."

There are several theories as to the origin of the name Milesian as applied to the Irish. One is that the country was first settled by colonists from the island of Melos (modern Milo) in Greece; another that the name is derived from Milesius, an early conqueror, while still others claim the term is taken from the Latin "miles," a knight.

Mozart Memorized Music.

Only once, so far as is known, have the secrets of the music used in St. Peter's at Rome, been violated. Mozart is reputed to have memorized one of the Masses while hearing it sung. Copies of the music are, as a matter of fact, so carefully guarded that members of the Vatican choir seldom handle them—if at all—at other times than during practice.

THE DIRECTOIRE BIDS FOR FAVOR

Distinctly New Type of Costume Is in Evidence in the Recent Collections.

GREEK SPIRIT STILL HOLDS

Ancient Note Prevails in Afternoon and Evening Dresses; Mede Displaced Years Ago by Moyen Age or Low Waistline.

Some of the most important dressmakers have elected to emphasize the Directoire drapery. Thus in the recent collections there is a distinctly new type of Directoire costume; because while introducing the Directoire motif in the skirt the couturier has kept the low waistline bodice. There is a very strong feeling, notes a fashion writer in the New York Tribune, that there will be a decided development into more pronounced Directoire styles. However, the cleverness of this new Directoire note is its faint suggestion and the actual creation of distinctly modern things around this basicly classic idea.

Model of Crepe de Chine Showing the Use of Greek Drapery.

As everybody knows, the Directoire was a development from the Greek—an effort, as it were, to adapt the simplicity and art of early Greek dress to the uses of the adventurous, intriguing spirit and manners of the turbulent Directoire. Thus what in its natural Greek environment was modest, simple and pure became flagrantly brazen, elaborate and vulgar. The artificiality of French life at that period transformed freedom into license, purity into grossness and art into sensuality.

Skirt Draped, Low Waistline Remains.

It is a matter of history that during the French Directorate women who adopted these so-called Greek fashions greased their bodies in order that their transparent and clinging draperies should reveal more clearly their physical charms. It is claimed, too, that during this period a man's success was only limited by his ambition and a woman's by her beauty. Thus there was no limit in audacious dress. Happily, today the Directoire motif is somewhat tempered by a sense of propriety.

The direct Greek is strong also in the new collections, and many of the most attractive afternoon and evening dresses are Greek in spirit. All through the past winter there has been a tendency toward the draped evening dress. In their effort to find something distinctly new and interesting the Paris dressmakers have now verged toward the Directoire; that is, the Directoire evidenced in the skirt drapery, but not yet defined in the bodice.

It has been an easy step from the Grecian styles of the winter to merge into the Directoire, because it was the Greek that inspired the Directoire during the early triumphs of Napoleon, before he became so ambitious as to create an empire.

The Directoire has not been in vogue since 1908, and it is curious to relate that it was displaced by the Moyen Age or low waistline in 1909. Since that time all the fashions have revolved around the low waistline and the natural uncorseted figure.

Worth, who excels in evening dresses, is notably working on the Directoire lines. He has made numberless day and evening dresses very suggestive of that period. It is interesting to note, however, that the draperies are treated in an entirely original way, owing to the fact that they are now at the right side and not the left, as in the original period. The low waistline is practically always retained.

Features Black With Vivid Colors.

Among the Worth evening dresses there is hardly a failure, but an embarrassment of riches. One might with closed eyes choose from the many beautiful models offered. This house is showing many beaded evening dresses, using square, oblong and round crystal beads in jet and in color, also many large cabuchons in high colors. Rhinestone and jet motifs and jewel studded embroideries are shown on evening dresses.

Worth's sensational novelty — the Directoire gown combined with the low waistline—is developed in black satin and turquoise blue net elaborately embroidered in turquoise beads and crystals. Nothing more lovely can be imagined than this combination of black and blue. The dark-haired woman who wore this created a veritable sensation, particularly as she wore priceless white and gray pearls as earrings and in the form of an upper arm bracelet with pendant ends, each end holding a pear-shaped pearl in gray or white.

Less extreme in its effect is a model in crepe de chine with beautiful embroideries of ruby and white beads. The dress itself is a pale mauve crepe de chine. From the hips down it is pure Directoire, while above that it has the straight chemise form. A pretty feature is the scarf, which falls from one shoulder at the back and is attached to a bracelet. This scarf, together with the earrings, is an important part of the toilette. Both jeweled ornaments are developed in rubies and pearls.

Many of the decolette models have specially designed shoulder straps worked out like jewelry, but in rhinestones and imitation onyx. This house uses also very elaborate belts like real jewels set in metal. One of the most striking novelties is an entire dress made of dull black paillettes, through which is wrought a design in colored paillettes, also in mat finish. This is extraordinarily new looking, more like a brocade than a spangled gown, as one always associates spangles with a brilliant or sparkling surface.

Worth goes in for vivid colors and plays a full series of reds, yellows and vari-colored combinations. He has strinkingly beautiful dresses all in flame red or flame yellow. Two new rose-yellows used by this house are known as Lucifer and Aurora.

Despite his apparent interest in high colors, Worth shows many lovely all-black evening dresses. A beautiful model, called soir de fete, is in black satin studded in a design of rhinestones, hammered directly into the fabric and with the Directoire drapery held on one hip under the fullness by a large motif in jet and rhinestones with giant acorn pendants.

Matching Wraps for Evening Dresses.

He has another lovely model, quite Greek in its feeling, called Phedre. It is developed in black satin combined with a dull black and gold gauze, the latter arranged in plaited panels. Ritz is the name of a handsome black satin and black lace dress, and Lucifer of a lovely golden pink lace dress. Saturnal is a beautiful black model with elaborate embroidery on the sleeves. Antar is a barbaric looking printed crepe. Danseuse Rouge, an evening dress in cerise and silver, and Pimparte, a black silk-striped crepe, are both very Directoire in feeling.

Very striking evening dresses feature in the collection of Madeleine et Madeleine, and the choicest models are always accompanied by matching wraps, another extravagance which women should regret.

Belle Nuit is a gorgeous evening toilette consisting of a dress and cape wrap in black satin. The dress in draped Directoire style is trimmed with bands of rhinestone ornaments and silver embroidery. The cape, all black except for the silver fabric collar, is lined throughout with an exquisite fabric.

Esclave is a gorgeous red satin dress with matching manteau. This is of red and silver brocade, embroidered in jeweled motifs of rose design, the jewels being sapphires and rhinestones on the red and silver background.

Draped Model of White Serge Embroidered in High Colors.

In some of the evening dresses a matching fan is featured. A beautiful model called L'Enchainee is in white satin trimmed with rose petals. There is an exquisite fan covered with the same rose petals that belong to the dress. Another lovely purple dress is trimmed with purple ornaments and with it was carried a purple ostrich fan, the fan being a gauze stretched on a pearl frame and trimmed with fringelike motifs of purple ostrich.

Many of the Madeleine et Madeleine elaborate evening wraps are completed with foot length boas of ostrich—that is, full length wraps have collar and stoll-like trimmings formed of thick ostrich boas.

Clever!

A fascinating Chicago widow had her ex-husband in for dinner and he presented her with a check for alimony due her. She took it, laughingly, saying: "This is taxation without representation."

Bless the Child.

A little girl who had recovered from the whooping cough remarked that she was glad she didn't die of it, because "God would not like little coughing angels."—Boston Transcript.

RUNNING THE THIEVES DOWN

THE United States government has frequently, throughout its history, been the victim of swindling operations of trusted employes. These dishonest servants often worked in partnership with scoundrels not connected with the Federal service. Congressman Reavis of Nebraska has aptly remarked that "no crook outside ever robbed the government without the assistance of some crook inside." Outsiders have reaped big gains from cheating the government, and the fact that they were aided by employes of the government has not always developed. But invariably they had much assistance.

Much of our present vast national debt resulted from transactions during the war—usually under the guise of contracts. The great excitement during that period, the high pressure at which everything had to be done, the fastening of the badge of patriotism upon every project and every proponent of a scheme having any resemblance to effort for the country's welfare—everything of this kind made detection o fdishonesty difficult for even the suspicious, and more difficult yet was any endeavor at proving dishonesty was in progress.

It is of course impossible to reach incompetents now. For years the country will suffer from their work. But the thieves inside and outside government service can be punished. That is the gigantic task undertaken by Attorney General Daugherty and the Department of Justice. Mr. Daugherty is now giving all his time, with the aid of a corps of eminent attorneys, to running these thieves down. No aid which the country can give to such undertakings should be spared.

UNITED STATES NORMALLY REPUBLICAN

THOSE Democratic leaders who are indicating that they recognize Woodrow Wilson as the national leader of their party are probably guided by sympathy rather than reason. It was Wilsonism that caused the great Democratic slump in 1918 and 1920, and it cannot be expected that the men who left the party then will go back to it so long as Wilson or anyone upholding Wilsonian policies is the recognized spokesman of the party.

If such small-calibred presidential aspirants as the loquacious "Jimmy" Cox were unceremoniously sat down upon and a man like Grover Cleveland, for instance, would come to the fore as a prospective candidate for President, there might be some chance of their recording a normal party vote, which would still be less than a plurality. The United States is a believer in the fundamental principles of Republicanism, and under all ordinary conditions the country will go Republican.

It is not likely that the abnormal conditions which made a Democratic victory possible in 1912 and 1916 will soon occur again. Wilson was the beneficiary of a split in the Republican party in 1912 and was re-elected in 1916 on the wholly false claim that he "kept us out of war." The country has thoroughly learned its lesson, at great expense, and will hardly repeat the course of instruction again. The Democratic party must rid itself of Socialism, Internationalism, and gross inefficiency, before it can regain the confidence of even a respectable minority of the voters.

PARTISAN MISRULE AND INEFFICIENCY

THE Republican administration is still confronted with the ruin and wreckage of the Wilson regime, despite the tremendous efforts made during the last fifteen months to clear them up. The orgy of squander and mismanagement in Washington during the World war was so prodigious, its extent so vast, its effects so injurious, that the people are yet suffering from it and will continue to suffer from it for years to come. This should be remembered by those who think that the high taxes are not being reduced fast enough. The terrible consequences of that disastrous period of partisan misrule and inefficiency will never be forgotten by the American people, who pay the bills.

It cannot be doubted, however, that business is now improving all over the country. The tremendous sweep downward which began under Wilson's adminstration, following the period of artificial "war prosperity," has finally reached bottom and the movement is now all up grade. And this, too, despite the enormous load of war taxes heaped upon the country by the wild extravagance and waste of Wilson rule.

FINES FOR "MOONSHINE" DEALERS

WE heartily agree with the Little Falls Transcript in regard to the traffic in "moonshine." Says the Transcript:

"St. Cloud papers tell of a brutal attack and attempt at assault on a woman by a moonshine crazed man. There should be no fine assessed for those convicted of peddling the vile stuff. Jail sentences only should be meted out. There is but one way to stop its sale and that is to put the salesmen behind the bars."

Both fines and imprisonment would be still better. The fines would pay for feeding them.

NATURE'S WONDERLAND

THE BIWABIK TIMES waxes enthusiastic over the glories of the Gopher state in "the sweet summer time." "Buds and blossoms in Northern Minnesota's nature's wonderland," says the Times, "foretell a wonderful harvest of blueberries and other wild fruit, and with fish biting in great style and most everybody working who wants to work, there's no reason for anything but that grand and glorious feeling."

PRESIDENT HARDING, it is said, is considering the advisability of establishing eight hours, instead of seven, for government clerks, which would save about $25,000,000 a year. If any of the clerks kick on working eight hours the woods are full of people anxious to take their places.

MOTHER WANTED EIGHT SONS TO BE COME PREACHERS AND DOCTORS AND TODAY HER WISH IS FULFILLED

Years ago, eight boys, averaging from one year to fifteen, gathered about their mother, Mrs. M. J. Taylor, of San Saba, Texas, and watched her holding a bunch of straws. "You strong, healthy boys have just got to amount to something," she said to them. "No use putting it off. We'll decide now. I want you to become preachers and doctors. See, here are some short and long straws. Draw a long straw and you'll be a preacher, pick a short one and you'll be a doctor." A few days ago Mrs. Taylor held a reunion at Brownwood, where she is now living, and the eight sons came to celebrate the famous straw drawing.

WAVES MOVE FAST

Average Speed of More Than Forty Miles an Hour.

Fortunately, Their Velocity and Power Are Materially Reduced as They Near the Shore.

When the wind blows fiercely most dwellers in towns, particularly in those near the sea, think of themselves what a stormy time our ships and sailors must be having, says a writer in a London paper, according to the Montreal Herald.

Storm-waves around the shores of these islands frequently have immense force behind them, treating blocks of stone and heavy timbers as playthings, smashing like match sticks apparently the most substantial obstacles.

During one storm in the Solent, near Hurst castle, the waves exerted such force ninety feet below the surface that stones weighing 300 pounds or more were torn from their resting places and hurled on the beach, together with heavy masses of seaweed attached to them.

It is in the deep ocean where the storm-wave is seen in its full majesty. Forty, fifty and even sixty feet is the height to which the billows of the Atlantic, the Indian ocean, and the Southern will rise in times of tempest.

In pre-steam days a British man-of-war encountered an unusually heavy gale of wind just outside the Bay of Biscay. Between two seas her storm trysails were totally becalmed, while the crest of each sea was above the level of the center of her mainyard. The mainyard was sixty feet above the water-line.

The water from a wave—as distinct from the body of the wave itself—has been known to do serious damage to vessels of great height above the deck. One notable instance of the kind was the smashing of the port lifeboat of a Hamburg-American liner, lashed on the bridge deck eighty feet above the sealine.

Giant storm-waves of the ocean have an average speed of rather more than forty miles an hour. Their length is the distance from crest to crest. This is about 400 feet for the Atlantic waves. It is much more, however, for the waves of the profoundly deep Pacific ocean.

Of course, it has to be remembered that giant waves in the open ocean can move with perfect freedom. It is when they begin to "touch bottom" in comparatively shallow water that their great speed is reduced—luckily for the fronts of the British coast resorts.

The velocity of the storm-wind in the Atlantic is frequently several miles an hour greater than the velocity of the wave. This results in a good deal of spraying, which, in very severe weather, sometimes seriously thickens and obscures the air.

At the seaside in summer we may sometimes see spraying caused by a stiff breeze blowing against an advancing wavelet.

During a gale on the British coast it will be noticed that the waves begin to break a long way out. That is because these waves, being big ones, touch bottom the sooner. Their lower part moves forward at its old speed.

The result is that the upper part curls over and breaks.

In very deep water a giant wave has been known to touch bottom and stir up the fine sand there at a depth of 1,200 feet.

On a fine autumn day we may sometimes see a procession of big "groundswells" coming shoreward and breaking on the beach with the boom of distant thunder. They represent the disturbance of the sea caused by a storm far out to sea. By closely observing the direction from which these swells come one can form an idea of where the storm is situated. Sometimes the waves travel faster than the storm, and even give warning of its approach.

Must Have Done.

Miss Marjorie—And how is your son James getting on, Mr. Giles?

Giles (whose son has gone to London "in service")—Well, to tell ye the truth, Miss Marji, Oi'm very troubled about 'm. Smoke as Lightning Conductor.

In a recent reference to the astronomical observatory on Mt. Etna, a prominent scientist called attention to the fact that thunderstorms are very rare phenomena there. The observatory is more than 9,000 feet above the level of the sea, and near the summit of the volcano, yet it has not been found necessary to protect it with lightning rods. The absence of thunderstorms has been accounted for on the supposition that the smoke and hot vapor constantly rising from the great crater of Etna act as a lightning conductor on a grand scale.

Fossil Forest.

The discovery of a fossil forest is reported at Anglon, Sardinia. Petrified palms, with well-preserved structure, are already known from a Miocene formation in the island, and details of the new find will be awaited with much interest.

Rare Example of Courtesy.

When a very young girl, in order to reach my place of employment each day, I had to walk quite a distance after leaving the street car. One morning it was raining heavily and I had no umbrella. As I alighted from the car a young man stepped up to me and quietly walked along by my side, shielding me from the rain with his umbrella. I was very shy and did not know what to say or do, so said nothing. When we arrived at my destination, I tried to thank him, and he gravely bowed and went on his way.—Exchange.

Her Smile Was to Come Off.

One Sunday evening I was out with my best beau. We first went to the show and then for a walk. When we were about three blocks from his home we met his father. My beau tried to hide, but his father saw him and took him home. I followed, and when they came to his house, I stood there and listened to him yelling. The next day at school I made fun of him, but he only smiled and said sweetly that mine was coming, because his father had told my father.—Chicago Journal.

COMMERCIAL CLUBS IN COMMON CAUSE

Brainerd Chamber of Commerce to Join Clubs Organization in Northern Part of State

BRAINERD AT HIBBING MEET

E. J. Hoffman's New Cigar Factory Presents Sample of Product to the Chamber

At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held on Wednesday evening matters of much importance were introduced and discussed and where possible action resulted.

W. E. Haydon, president of the Chamber, was in the chair.

Rev. Fred Errington who, on the call of the president, had represented the Brainerd Chamber at a meeting of the commercial clubs of Northern Minnesota read a report covering the transactions of the meeting held in the Androy hotel at Hibbing on June 5th. In reporting the meeting these facts were brought out: The organization is for the purpose of unifying the interests of the commercial clubs in the northern section of the state. There are many things common to the north among these being peet lands, iron lands and a different kind of land utilized for agricultural purposes. How to develop these resources to the best advantage is a question which is exercising the minds of the leaders in the communities of the northern part of the state. And it was the feeling of the meeting that if the interests are pooled and a united front is possible much good will accrue. It has often happened that one community would be working for one purpose and another community in this section working for something else and through this division of effort nothing permanent was accomplished. However, if it is possible to get all these clubs working for a common purpose with the motivity of a unified interest, it is felt that much can be realized.

After hearing the report it was the sentiment of the meeting that the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce ought to be represented at the next meeting which is to be held at Hibbing on June 23rd. At this meeting the new organization will begin to function. Some discussion developed as to the advisability of joining an organization of this kind but it was decided to send the secretary, O. J. Bouma as the representative from Brainerd. A further motion was offered and carried to the effect that the secretary "go with power to act."

Ingolf Dillan reported for the committee on hone coming. He stated that everything is going satisfactorily and that the committee is encouraged by the results which have been secured up to this time. Letters were read by Secretary Bouma from those who had replied to letters of invitation to the home-coming celebration. These were of much interest and those present would have been glad to have heard more such. Mr. Dillan also read a letter of much interest from T. B. Shoaff, who, with his good wife, was entertained by the city some months ago on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

There was a pleasing break in the regular program when Mr. Bouma passed around a box of cigars which had been made in the new factory operated by E. J. Hoffman.

For some time the matter of putting up signs on the highways leading to Brainerd has been considered but nothing brought about owing to the failure of the committee to raise the necessary funds for the purpose. It was decided at the meeting that 25 of these signs be secured and placed at an early date and V. L. Hitch was added to the committee which is to secure the necesary funds.

A vote was taken on candidates for membership and the following were elected to membership in the Chamber: E. J. Hoffman, Mrs. Rose G. Parker and Dr. Earl F. Jamieson.

A letter was read from the Minnesota State Forestry Board in which a resolution was offered calling for severe penalties in cases of those who through negligence are responsible for forest fires. The resolution was laid on the table.

Those present are not satisfied with the condition of the grounds surrounding the water tank which ought to be an ornament to the city, but which, at the base, is at present an eye-sore. The matter was referred to the railroad committee and the hope was expressed that action might be taken and the grounds improved by the railroad company before the home-coming celebration.

On motion of R. R. Wise the donor of the cigars which had been handed around was thanked for his thoughtfulness.

A film company had asked to come on a contract to film the crowds during home-coming week but the secretary was asked to advise that the Chamber is not interested.

P. T. Brown spoke of seeing beautiful views of northern Minnesota towns in the lobby of the Andrews hotel, Minneapolis, and thought that some arrangements might be made whereby views of Brainerd might be placed in hotel lobbies in the larger cities of the state. The secretary will attempt to find out how this may be done.

The unfortunate happening whereby the picture of the man who is known as the father of Brainerd was relegated to the attic of the city hall was mentioned. Older residents brought to the attention of those present the fact that this man gave Gregory park to the city and gave the sites to the churches on which the churches of the city stand on their own extensive grounds made possible through his generosity.

On motion of A. L. Hoffman it was decided to send a committee of two to wait upon the mayor requesting that the picture be turned over to the Chamber of Commerce to be suitably hung in their reception room.

R. R. Wise and A. L. Hoffman were appointed on this committee.

Maps are to be put out by the secretary in answer to inquiries relative to the location and equipment of resorts in the district. These are well arranged giving a great amount of valuable information and will doubtless be helpful in bringing tourists into this section of Minnesota. R. R. Wise introduced the map put out by the Ten Thousand Lakes Association and R. R. Gould announced that over 16,000 inquiries had come into the office of Mr. Wise asking for information about northern lakes.

T. B. Brusegard reported for the Building and Loan Association and gave a hopeful picture of the possibilities of this new enterprise. Already over $5000 of stock has been sold and applications are in hand for loans amounting to over $12,000.

CLAUS A. THEORIN

Expresses His Appreciation

I desire by this means to thank those who so laally supported me in the recent primary election as a candidate for Sheriff. Because of the work of my office of sheriff being unusually heavy at this time I did not have much time to get out and consequently did not have the opportunity of seeing many voters.

And as you thought fit to choose me as one of the candidates for this office at the general election, I hereby express my sincere appreciation.

1t CLAUS A. THEORIN

THANK YOU!

To the Voters of Crow Wing County:

Please accept my heartiest thanks for the handsome support given me at the primaries as candidate for County Attorney. All the more I appreciate it, as owing to the shortness of the campaign and press of city business I was unable to cover our county fully. Before election I shall try to meet you all. Should you see fit next November to make me your County Attorney, I shall do my utmost to justify your choice, giving Crow Wing County my best services, as now I am giving them to my home towns, as city attorney.

ing soul of the little city: "With the spirit of progress now apparant". We do not need to quote more. There it is in a few words—the same spirit that exists with us here today—The Spirit of Progress!

And it is for all of us, every citizen, young or old, to see that this spirit is kept alive and glowing. In a sense, we are torch bearers, and must hold the faith that these early settlers had in our city. And in this Fiftieth celebraion is a chance for everyone to show what Brainerd means to him.

Boost for Brainerd

It's a big undertaking, but if we all pull together, the result is bound to be a shining success, and it will make Brainerd known far and near as an 'up and coming" city. So if you're asked to help in any way, by serving on a committee, preparing a spare room for some weary visitor, selling banners, show the same spirit in your service that the early settlers knew. And where solicited to buy a "Booster Button" meet the girls with a "silver" smile.

Carnival Coming Soon

No home-coming or celebration would be complete without a regular old fashioned street carnival wherein the multitudes could gather on the Midway and ride the merry-go-round and the Ferris wheel, eat peanuts and popcorn, hot dogs and ice cream cones, see the minstrel show and the big snakes, listen to the barkers announcing different attractions, hear the bands play and the calliope pouring out strains of old time melodies.

You are going to see all this and much more while you are in Brainerd during the week of July 2nd. The Morris and Castle shows are going to be here in all their splendour and are bringing a special train of twenty-five double length privately owned cars just crammed full of show paraphernalia of all kinds for your entertainment. Yes sir re boss, they sure have the "Show that Shows" and amongst all their attractions there is not one of an immoral nature, not any to which you could not with propriety take your entire family or all of your sweethearts.

Front street will be the scene of the festivities and a Welcome Arch will be erected near the Park theatre at the entrance to the midway. All the shows and riding devices will, be set up on property and streets immediately adjoining and on Front street and a more brilliant midway cannot be conceived than which these shows will construct. Music galore will prevail, myriads of electric lights will be strewn in all directions along the path of the shows and if you are not there to enjoy the festivities that the city of Brainerd is going to give you it will be because the "old Henry" is out of commission or you have the gout. Watch the newspapers for new features each day and line up your work so that you and the family can remain over for a few days for you will be unable to take it all in at one time.

Junior Young Peoples

The Junior Young People's society of the Bethlehem Lutheran church will meet tomorrow evening, Friday, in the church parlors, entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Holum. A good program will be rendered. Everybody welcome.

First Pilgrim to Die in America.

The first death among the Pilgrims after their arrival on the coast of America was that of Mrs. William Bradford, wife of William Bradford, who later was governor of the Plymouth colony. Before a site was selected for a settlement and while the Mayflower was still riding at anchor in Cape Cod bay, Mrs. Bradford fell into the sea and was drowned.

Exceptions.

"Sometimes, John," said Brashkin's wife, "I do get a little discouraged, and think you are hard to please." "You don't say so," was the astonishing rejoinder. "Yes, but I must admit there is one thing you never found fault with—the way I look when I wear my last year's clothes."—Detroit Free Press.

AMUSEMENTS

"Gleam o' Dawn"

John Gilbert, who has been made a star by William Fox and will be seen in his first picture "Gleam o' Dawn," at the Lyceum theatre Friday, was promoted to head his own company because of the fine work he did in the big William Fox special "Shame." Gilbert brings to stardom a long experience on both stage and screen; in fact, he is another of those who went on the stage as a baby because his parents were players.

"Gleam o' Dawn" is from the story by Arthur Goodrich—who wrote the play "Yes or No."

With Gilbert as leading woman is Barbara Bedford, who soon after the making of this photoplay also became a Fox star.

"Home Stretch"

Comedies possesing genuine elements of gripping tingling drama and of delicate sentiment without sacrificing laugh-power are infrequent enough to cause Douglas MacLean's latest Paramount picture, "The Home Stretch," now playing at the Lyceum theatre to stand forth as one of the most original and entertaining offerings of the year.

Douglas MacLean in the Thomas H. Ince Production "The Home Stretch" A Paramount Picture

The story concerns a jockey, a trainer, a racetrack follower, who at the time the picture opens, has risen to the ranks of racehorse owners, and of the difficulties he encounters when he attempts to abandon his gambling habits. Not only is Mr. MacLean afforded ample opportunity to "get over" sparkling comedy situations, but to display his dramatic ability and his skill with "thrillers" as well.

The opening scenes of the story, laid on a famous California race track are notable for tensely dramatic situations, and a thrilling accident, in which Mr. MacLean plays a prominent part. Throughout the remainder of the picture, clever comedy and dramatic suspense are delightfully blended and carried through to an unusual ending.

Constance Talmadge Becomes Footlight Favorite

Life's bitterest moment may be described as the day of unstinted ridicule; but Constance Talmadge faces her day of despair and gets away with it for a laugh as she romps before the footlights in "Polly of the Follies," her latest First National attraction, at the New Park last time tonight.

The breezy star of light comedies has a new viewpoint of the ambitious, stage-struck country girl, and she presents it in laughable fashion in an original story that has been written for her by John Emerson and Anita Loos, authorities of good story writing for the screen. Withal the merriment that the picture contains, the plot has its dramatic moments and the value of story narrative is ably retained as Polly Meacham leaves her country home to seek elusive renown of the stage.

A Master Feat of Horsemanship

When Ben Wilson was filming the race track scene which is one of the high-lights in "Chain Lightning," his newest production for Arrow, which opens Friday at the New Park theatre, where it will remain for 2 days, an incident occurred which fortunately ended happily, but which might just as easily have been a tragedy.

When Miss Little, who, in the picture, is called upon to ride "Chain Lightning" to victory, was rehearsing the big scene and perfecting herself in the jockey's technique which is infinitely different from that of the average horseback rider, she was galloping the high-spirited, black—Chain Lightning—around the track, spurring him on to the last bit of speed of which he was capable.

HARDING O. K.'S PLAN TO RETURN FOE PROPERTY

Washington, June 22.—Legislation is being prepared with President Harding's sanction which will return to approximately 30,000 Germans and Austrians property taken over by the alien property custodian in amounts of $10,000 or less, it was announced today at the White House. The president, working with the departments of state and justice and the alien property office, it further was stated, will recommend that alien owners of seized property valued at more than $10,000 amounts shall be entitled by the legislation to receive, if necessary, part payment, ranging up to the $10,000 limit.

CORSET OF TODAY

No Indication of the Waistline Becoming Smaller.

Prevalent Style in France Is Extremely Low, Not Very Long and Lightly Boned.

The evolution of the corset is extremely interesting, observes a writer in the New York Tribune. Its American history dates back to the days of the Pilgrims, when the first article of this character was made in this country. These God-fearing people wove the material by hand, leaving it in its natural gray state. To bone the corset they used whalebone, which they sewed in by hand—and this garment was not lightly boned as it is in these days. The whalebones were placed so close to one another that one row of stitching supported a bone at either side of it.

Unlike the corset of today, this primitive one covered the body from the waistline upward, leaving the hips practically unprotected. Reaching from one's chest to waist, it gradually diminished in size toward the latter point, where it again widened slightly, ending not more than two inches below the waistline. The top and bottom edges were finished with a white leather binding.

During recent years—clothes having taken to straight lines—many women of both France and America have worn either no corset at all or one quite lightly boned. Gradually, however, they are beginning to perceive the need of some support, however slight it may be. Particularly is this true of the French woman, who was the originator of the corsetless mode, according to an interview with the head of one of our largest American manufacturing concerns, who recently returned from Paris.

The women of America are under the impression that their French sisters have entirely dispensed with corsets. This is inaccurate, because what we term a short corset or girdle they classify as a belt.

There is no change whatever in the lines of corsets. At present there is no indication of the waistline becoming smaller. If anything, the waist is larger. The prevalent style in France is a model extremely low, not very long and quite lightly boned. For evening wear the backs are entirely cut away. So many French women have returned to the corset in the past month that sales have increased 50 per cent.

DRESS FOR THE BRIDESMAID

UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

A charming bridesmaid's dress is a combination of venetian lace in scallops and a val lace bodice. With the outfit is worn a hat whose transparent brim is of sea-green horsehair with a val lace crown and rosette of flowers.

SOME NEW PARIS HANDKIES

Figures Embroidered in the Corners Represent the Favorite Sports of the User.

Paris fashion is busying herself with handkerchiefs. The latest designs have in the corners embroidered figures representing the user's favorite sport, such as golf, tennis, racing and fencing. The men are offered oblong handkerchiefs with colored borders.

The petticoats, who have generally adopted flower trimmings, are reproducing seasonable flowers of changing varieties as spring advances. They are now using hyacinths, cowslips and buttercups, rarely seen on Paris hats.

Black and red, blue and gray and yellow and white are the prevailing color schemes for gowns, with hat, shoes, stockings, handbags and even headdress to match.

The Sleeve Question.

In the advance models, wide sleeves seem to be more favored than the long, tight variety. Decorated sleeves, according to some houses, will be as well liked as ever, and they will continue to be of a contrasting fabric.

PHILIPPINES NOT READY FOR INDEPENDENCE

(By United Press.)

Washington, June 22.—President Harding today refused to approve "absolute immediate and complete independence to the Philippines" as recently requested by a delegation from the island.

The president's refusal of the plea for independence was made known to the delegation in a conference at the White House this morning.

Harding, it was said, expressed the opinion that independence would be granted the island ultimately, but made it clear that he does not consider the time ripe for such action as yet.

Liver Trouble Leads To Serious Ills

Blood Filter of the Body is Source of Infection

Biliousness is a sure sign of liver trouble—and any derangement of the liver is likely to lead to serious if not fatal results. Torpid liver means "bile poison" in the blood—a dangerous condition. If you have pains under the left shoulder blade, coated tongue, fickle appetite, pale, muddy complexion, or attacks of headache, your liver is probably affected. Read this strong endorsement from Mr. J. W. Strawhecker, 1608 Hunter St., Harrisburg, Pa.:

"I think I can truthfully say that Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills saved my life. I suffered from bilious attacks and was so far gone nothing would help me, and any treatment I tried just made me worse. I had no control over my kidneys and my liver was so bad that my skin was yellow. I felt sure I was getting diabetes. I read in a little booklet of Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills and sent for some, and this is the remedy that saved my life. Today I am a good healthy man, bowels regular, kidneys and liver in good condition, and have a good color and splendid appetite."

Dr. A. W. Chase's remedies can be obtained at any first class drug store. To be sure of getting the genuine, see that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., are on each box. This trade mark is your protection against imitation and substitutes.—Advertisement. 9
